Dato Selvaraj Inaugurates UPM's Tamils Cultural Festival

21 Apr 2012

Makkal Osai

Dato Selvaraj inaugurated UPM's Tamils Cultural Festival, which took place from 21-22 April 2012. The festival was held at the university's main campus and featured various cultural activities celebrating Tamil heritage.

The festival included a range of events such as music performances, dance competitions, and traditional Tamil cuisine. Attendees had the opportunity to experience the rich cultural diversity of Tamil communities.

The inauguration ceremony was attended by officials from the university and the Tamil community. The festival aimed to promote cultural harmony and understanding among students and the broader community.

The event was well-received, with participants expressing their appreciation for the efforts put into organizing such a vibrant cultural celebration. It served as a platform for showcasing the vibrancy of Tamil culture and its significance in the global arena.

Overall, the festival was a resounding success, reflecting the strong tradition of cultural celebration among Tamil communities.

---

Editors Note:

The festival was a testament to the vibrant and rich Tamil culture, exemplifying the ingenuity and dedication of the organizers. The events were well-coordinated, and the atmosphere was filled with joy and camaraderie. It was a proud moment for the Tamil community and an enriching experience for all who participated.

---

Special thanks to the team of volunteers who worked tirelessly behind the scenes to ensure the smooth running of the festival. Their efforts contributed significantly to the success of this event, and their commitment to cultural preservation is highly commendable.

---

For more information on UPM's Tamils Cultural Festival, please visit the university's official website or contact the event organizers directly.